Crates Landing

Dear Ms. Rasmussen:

I don't know how you get politicians on short notice because my calendar is full until the end of the year. I'm in London on October 4th.

Geothermal energy has enormous potential in a province like Ontario. It makes economic sense to tap into it in and new development and to begin retrofitting buildings. I believe this will be 'conventional practice' in a few years.

Congratulations on being at the front edge of the coming wave.

Statement from Elizabeth May,
Leader of the Green Party of Canada

I wish I was able to be with you in person for today's wonderful event, the launch of a premiere eco-resort on Lake Simcoe. As you may know, I had major surgery last week and am recuperating. (I need to heal fast... in case there is an election!)

Today's announcement is good news, at many levels. We need to be pursuing low-carbon vacations and a beautiful spot close to home needs to attract the attention of green vacationers (small g and BIG G). A spot we can reach by train and bicycle, with its own commitment to geo-thermal energy, and a smaller ecological footprint than the average resort should be celebrated. LEED certification will be a huge plus as is the promise to protect 50% of the space as green space.

I look forward to a vacation at Crates Landing and to the fulfillment of the promise of an ecologically responsible wave of green vacations. Congratulations to Marriott, Enwave, and BrightStar Corporation.
